➤ 5th Biennial Australian and New Zealand Falls Prevention Conference

On behalf of the ANZFPS Executive and the SA Organising Committee, it is our pleasure to invite you to the 5th Biennial Australian and New Zealand Falls Prevention Conference on 28-30 October 2012.

The theme is Translating Research into Practice, and we are preparing an exciting program that we believe will engage, challenge and inspire professionals from the full breadth of disciplines involved in clinical and residential care and research. Heading an impressive list of speakers are Dr Frances Healey (UK), a key researcher in inpatient falls prevention, and Dr Olivier Beauchet (France) whose wide ranging research includes gait instability, cognitive decline and vitamin D deficiency.

Falls Prevention is fortunate to have a rapidly building evidence base, and health systems are increasingly geared towards preventative and health promoting activities, allowing the application of research into the daily work of many health professionals.

ANZFPS' fundamental objective is to foster communication between health professionals and researchers, and to advance the understanding and practice of the prevention of falls and harm from falls.

This conference – like previous ANZFPS conferences – will provide a stimulating and friendly environment for sharing scientific knowledge, clinical expertise and innovation.

The venue will be the Adelaide Convention Centre in the heart of Adelaide. The South Australian capital is an ideal conference city – convenient and safe, set between beaches and rolling hills, and close to famous vineyards and a range of tourist attractions.

We look forward to seeing you in Adelaide in October!

Professor Stephen Lord, President ANZFPS
Dr Shylie Mackintosh, Convenor
Ms Michele Sutherland, Convenor
